The Daily Courant.

Tueſday, March 14 1704

From the Amſterdam Gazette, dated March 18.

Warſaw, February 26.

IN the Aſſembly that was held the 23d in the Cardinal Primate's Palace, his Eminency being preſent, the Marſhal reported what had paſs'd the day before; after which a Deputy of the Palatinate of Bilſen ſaid, that the Aſſembly ought not to be transferr'd from a publick Place to a private Houſe, when Affairs of Importance are in Agitation. He added, with ſome warmth, that if his Palatinate was the firſt of thoſe of the leſſer Poland that entred into the Confederacy, it ſhould be the firſt to quit it, if the Promiſes that the Swediſh Troops ſhould move off the Territories of the Republick, that they ſhould raiſe no more Contributions, and that the Poliſh Gentlemen who are Priſoners ſhould be releas'd, ſhould not ſpeedily be perform'd. Monſieur Barski of Poſnania declar'd he was of the ſame Opinion; and that it would ill become them to perſiſt in the Confederacy, while their Brethren of Cujavia Culm and other Palatinats were under the Preſſure of exorbitant Contributions. Theſe Repreſentations brought the Aſſembly to a Reſolution, that Application ſhould be made to the Swediſh Commiſſioners for an end to be put to theſe Grievances. After this, the Cardinal Primate having thank'd the Aſſembly for the regard they had ſhewn to his ill ſtate of Health by removing the Congreſs to his own Palace, ſaid that the Congreſs might treat of the publick Affairs of the Kingdom in any Place and as publickly as they ſhould think fit, and that he propos'd no Advantage by their aſſembling in his Palace. The Widdow of the Palatin of Culm lately deceas'd, having drawn together 5 or 6000 Peaſants has defeated ſeveral Parties of Saxons who came to demand Contributions on her Territories, and having ſurrounded 280 Swedes in a Churchyard, cut them all off.

Warſaw, March 1. The 29th of laſt Month, the Palatin of Poſnania inform'd the Congreſs, that the Letters which arriv'd that Day from Cracow had brought News of ſuch Conſequence as deſerv'd to be maturely conſider'd by them; and the Cardinal Primate produc'd Letters he had receiv'd from the Vice Chancellor of Lithuania, containing an Account of all the Proceedings of the Council at Cracow, and among other things, of the King of Poland's having produc'd to that Council ſeveral of the Primate's Letters which he had intercepted. Then the Kings Univerſalia for ſummonſing the Poſtpolite Ruzzenie were read, by which the Congreſs of the Confederates is abſolutely annull'd; and alſo his Univerſalia to the Army of the Crown to engage them to continue firm to his Majeſty, and promiſing them the Confiſcation of the Eſtates of the Rebels aſſembled at Warſaw. After a long Debate the Aſſembly was adjourn'd to the 29th when the Congreſs reſolv'd to ſend Deputies to the King of Sweden, to deſire him to redreſs the Grievances of the Nation, and to give his Miniſters full Power to conclude a Treaty with the free Republick. Tb Day the Decree of the royal Council at Cracow was read, in which the Confederates Aſſembled here are declar'd Perjur'd and Rebels. Whereupon ſeveral ſharp Invectives were made againſt the King and his Party, and the Cardinal was deſir'd to execute his Right without delay. His Eminency after having made ſome very vehement Diſcourſes, adjourn'd to the 3d of this Month.

From the Hague Gazette, dated March 17.

Cracow, Feb. 25. Upon the reading of ſeveral intercepted Letters from Prince James Sobieski, the Cardinal Primate, General Renſchild, &c. the Council of Senators declar'd unanimouſly, That the Congreſs at Warſaw being aſſembled contrary to the ancient Laws of the Kingdom, and to the Reſolutions of the Diet of Lublin, was utterly illegal, and that therefore all the Members of it ought to be look'd upon as Enemies of the King and Country; that they are unworthy of the Clemency his Majeſty has hitherto ſhewn to them; That the Generals and Army of the Crown ſhould be commanded to act in the Defence of his Majeſty; and that the Poſtpolite Ruzzenie ſhould be ſummon'd to mount on Horſeback to ſhew their Fidelity to his Majeſty; That the King ſhould make uſe of all the Auxiliary Troops he can procure; that Allirnces ſhould be made with the neighbouring Potentates, particularly with the King of Denmark; And laſtly that all the Palatinats ſhould be commanded not to receive any Univerſalia from the Cardinal Primate or the Congreſs at Warſaw. Theſe Reſolutions were approv'd and confirm'd the 21ſt. Inſtant by the ſaid Senators; But are not yet approv'd by the King.

Warſaw, March 2. The Expreſs ſent by General Horn to the King of Sweden, to deſire his Majeſty to forbear raiſing Contributions, is return'd with this Anſwer, That his Majeſty has order'd all his Officers to raiſe no more Contributions. and is ready to do every thing that may help to eſtabliſh the Peace of the Nation. Mean time the Adminiſtration of the Affairs of the Kingdom is put into the Hands of the Cardinal Primate, in the ſame manner as is uſual during a real Interregnum. Yet the Army and Generals of the Crown are ſuſpected to be intirely in the King's Intereſt. At the Inſtance of the Son of the Treaſurer Sapieha, who was preſent in the laſt meeting of the Congreſs, it is incerted in the general Act of the Confederacy, that the Houſe of Sapieha ſhall be reeſtabliſh'd in all their Honours, Eſtates and Dignities.

Theſe, with what was incerted in yeſterday's Courant, are all the Advices relating to Poland that came in the laſt Prints from Holland.

Falmouth, March 9. This day arriv'd the Spaniſh Alliance Pacquet-boat in 8 days from Lisbon, and brings the confirmation of the Agreeable News of the Arrival of the King of Spain there, together with the Tranſport Ships, &c. on the 25th Ult. And that Admiral Leake with his Squadron arriv'd there the day before he ſail'd. And adds, that it is almoſt impoſſible to expreſs the Satisfacton and Rejoycings there on this Occaſion.

London, March 14. The following Letter from Lisbon was communicated to us by a Gentleman; and is printed Verbatim from the original.

Lisbon, March 11. The 7th inſtant arriv'd here the Fleet under the command of Sir George Rooke, having on board the King of Spain, who landed the 9th with all the Joy and Grandeur imaginable to be expreſs'd by the Portugueze, to whom he is as welcome as a Meſſias would be to the Jews; The King caus'd him to be ſaluted with a tripple Diſcharge of all the Cannon of his Caſtles on both ſides this River, which are many in number, and lower'd their their Colours when they fired: The Admiral and moſt of the Engliſh Men of War came up the 9th in the Afternoon over againſt the Palace, where they were again ſaluted as before; and after 2 Meſſages from the King of Portugal to the King of Spain, carry'd by the Duke de Cadaval, who is the 2d Man in the Kingdom, the King of Portugal went on board the Royal Katharine, and was receiv'd at the entering Port by the King of Spain, where they embraced each other on their Knees. After which the King of Spain led the King of Portugal into his Cabbin, giving him the right hand all the while he was on board, which was about half a quarter of an-hour, all which time the Flag was ſtruck, and a vaſt number of Pendants let fly all at once. The King of Portugal at his Reception was ſaluted by all the Ships, and the ſame at his Departure, and continued on the right hand till they enter'd a very noble Barge provided for this occaſion, in which and ever ſince the King of Spain had the right hand. As ſoon as he landed all the Artillery was thrice diſcharg'd, alſo 3 Vollies of ſmall Arms were given by the Train-Bands, which were drawn up in ſight of the Palace. The two Kings went directly to the Chapel to return God Thanks. After which the King of Spain was conducted to his Apartment (which was very finely furniſh'd) where he Supp'd in publick, and has continued ever ſince to Dine and Sup publickly. We have had Illuminations 3 Nights; all the Portugueze Men of War, which I think are 17 in number, were extreamly well ſet with Lights, which in the Night made a very noble ſhow. In fine, had I not ſeen it, I ſhould never have believ'd that the Portugueze were able to make ſuch a magnificent Appearance of Grandeur as they have done on this Occaſion.
